Ants: Fun Facts March 23, 2010

God's wonder and majesty can be seen in all that He has created!

Where Do Ants Live?

Ants live on every continent in the world except Antarctica. They prefer warm weather, and you will find more ants in the tropics.

Do Ants Have Homes?

Well, ants don't have "homes" exactly. But they do live together in large groups, called colonies. Most of these "group homes" are underground and have rooms, or chambers, that are connected by many tunnels.

Do Ants Have Jobs?

Yes! And they work really hard! The soldiers are the largest ants in the group. They protect the colony and defend the other ants that do housekeeping chores and that bring in food and supplies. The worker ants' job is to do . . . yep, you got it . . . work! They care for the queen and her young, they build and repair the nest, and they search for food. The queen ant's job is to lay eggs and make more ants.

Do Ants Communicate?

Very definitely! Often they touch each other with their antennae to "talk." Other times they make a path with a chemical that leaves a scent and tells other ants where they went, what they did, whether to follow, and how to help.

Do Ants Eat?

Oh yes, and most of them love sweets. Have they ever visited one of your picnics? Ants will also eat other dead insects, seeds, meat, eggs, oil, and just about any food that gets left out.

~BIRTHDAYS AND ANNIVERSARIES~
Sept. 13, Happy Birthday! Dean Yoder, 1991

Marriage is Sharing

The old man placed an order for one hamburger, French fries, and a drink. He unwrapped the plain hamburger and carefully cut it in half, placing one half in front of his wife.

He then carefully counted out the French fries, dividing them into two piles and neatly placed one pile in front of his wife. He took a sip of the drink, his wife took a sip and then set the cup down between them. As he began to eat his few bites of hamburger, the people around them were looking over and whispering.

Obviously they were thinking, "That poor old couple—all they can afford is one meal for the two of them."

As the man began to eat his fries a young man came to the table and politely offered to buy another meal for the old couple. The old man said, they were just fine—they were used to sharing everything.

People closer to the table noticed the little old lady hadn't eaten a bite. She sat there watching her husband eat and occasionally taking turns sipping the drink..

Again, the young man came over and begged them to let him buy another meal for them. This time the old woman said "No, thank you, we are used to sharing everything."

Finally, as the old man finished and was wiping his face neatly with the napkin, the young man again came over to the little old lady who had yet to eat a single bite of food and asked "What is it you are waiting for?"

She answered, "The Teeth."

It is not happy people who are thankful. It is thankful people who are happy.
