Flood Legends -Africa

The Masai people of Africa have one of the few African legends of a worldwide flood. This story tells of a righteous man that God loved who was named Tumbainot. He was married and had three sons. There were a lot of people at that time, but they did not want to obey their god's commands. When one man killed another man, their god could not overlook this tragedy and decided to destroy all mankind. Only Tumbainot found grace in the eyes of God. God commanded Tumbainot to build an ark of wood and go into it with his family. They took all kinds of animals with them. When they were on board and had all the supplies, God caused it to rain so long and hard that everyone drowned except those in the ark. When the rain stopped, Tumbainot let a vulture out, with an arrow attached to its tail feathers. The vulture returned without the arrow. The waters went down and the ark landed on a grassy plain. They got off, and Tumbainot saw four rainbows.

Stepping Stones

The Lord came to me like a dream one day and asked, "why do you sorrow?" I answered, "Lord my life is so full of pain, I can't face one more tomorrow." The Lord sat down beside me, and gently took my hand. He said, "Let Me explain to you, and then you'll understand. Each sorrow is a stepping stone you must surmount each day, And every stepping stone you climb is a sorrow that's passed away. The road of life is a mountainside, with crevices in which to be caught, But as you struggle on your way, I, the Rock, will lend support. Every stepping stone you climb, makes spirit and heart grow strong. Exercising character and faith, this road seems painful and long.

The way is paved with stepping stones, to uplift your heart and soul, Though difficult, they aid your way, to a City paved with gold. I know that you are tired, for I too have walked this way, My sorrows did they multiply, but I cleared many stones away. I left My Rock to lift you up, I left behind My story. To give you strength to make your climb, to that special place in glory. And never fear, the Rock is here, you'll never climb this mountain alone Surmount life's sorrows, continue on, for they are but stepping stones. "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not to your own understanding. In all ways, acknowledge Him and He will direct your paths." Proverbs 3:5-6 — Author Unknown
