One of the most loved of the marine animals is the bottlenose dolphin because it is intelligent and social. Dolphins are mammals and must surface to breathe. They live in all temperate zones, and seem to prefer coastal waters on the continental shelf.

The bottlenose dolphin is silver-gray and has a streamlined body designed to swim fast. Dolphins love to hunt and play, and will sometimes jump into the air to look for flocks of sea birds. Though they have good eyesight, dolphins use echolocation to navigate and hunt. With this ability, they hunt fish at any time of day or night. Their diet consists of a variety of fish and crustaceans.

Dolphins swim in pods of a dozen or more animals, sometimes gathering in groups of several hundred. The dolphin's upright dorsal fin is sometimes mistaken for that of a shark; however, it swims and behaves differently than a shark.

Gestation for the dolphin is around 12 months. The calf is about three-and-half feet (1 m) long when born and nurses from its mother for a year.

Dolphins are curious and people-friendly, and seem to enjoy escorting ships at speed. There are many stories and rumors of dolphins helping stranded and drowning people. Unfortunately, dolphins are sometimes caught in fishermen's nets and drown. In captivity, dolphins are trained to perform tricks, and thousands of audiences have enjoyed watching their antics.

Bottlenose Dolphin, Cetacea • Delphinidae • Tursiops Truncatus, Weight: 500 pounds (227 kg) Length: 12 feet (3.9 m) Life Span: 50 years Special Design Feature: Dolphins use echolocation to navigate and find food. Did you know? The dolphin must surface to breathe. They can stay under the water for ten minutes or more.

~BIRTHDAYS AND ANNIVERSARIES~

May, 14, Happy Birthday! Anna Mae Byler, 1966

May 16, Happy Birthday! Kayla Yoder, 1994

When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you hang my first painting on the refrigerator, and I wanted to paint another one. When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you feed a stray cat, and I thought it was good to be kind to animals. When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw you make my favorite cake for me, and I knew that little things are special things. When you thought I wasn't looking, I heard you say a prayer, and I believed that there was a God to talk to. When you thought I wasn't looking, I felt you kiss me goodnight, and I felt loved. When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw tears come from your eyes, and I learned that sometimes things hurt, but it's alright to cry. When you thought I wasn't looking, I saw that you cared, and I wanted to be everything that I could be. When you thought I wasn't looking, I looked.... and I wanted to say thanks for all the things I saw when you thought I wasn't looking. Author: Mary Rita Schilke Korazan

Why Mothers Cry

"Why are you crying?" he asked his mom. "Because I'm a mother," she told him. "I don't understand," he said.

His mom just hugged him and said, "You never will!" Later the little boy asked his father why Mother seemed to cry for no reason. "All mothers cry for no reason," was all his dad could say. The little boy grew up and became a man, still wondering why mothers cry. So he finally put in a call to God and when God got on the phone the man said, "God, why do mothers cry so easily." God said, "You see son, when I made mothers they had to be special. I made their shoulders strong enough to carry the weight of the world, yet gentle enough to give comfort. I gave them an inner strength to endure childbirth and the rejection that many times come from their children. "I gave them a hardness that allows them to keep going when everyone else gives up, and to take care of their families through sickness and fatigue without complaining. "I gave them the sensitivity to love their children under all circumstances, even when their child has hurt them very badly. This same sensitivity helps them to make a child's boo-boo feel better and helps them share a teenager's anxieties and fears. "I gave them a tear to shed. It's theirs exclusively to use whenever it's needed. It's their only weakness. It's a tear for mankind."
