Twiga

Hello! My name is Twiga, and I am a giraffe. We are the tallest animals in the world and can be seen roaming in herds in Africa.

Giraffes like me are a great example of the careful and wise design of the Creator. You see, somehow we have to get blood all the way up our very long necks, to our brain. God has equipped us with an extra big and strong heart to do that. But that's not enough. An extra big heart means extra blood pressure—which we need—but what happens when we bend over to take a drink? It could kill us because of all that blood pressure! But it doesn't, because we were carefully designed by the Creator. Instead, a special system of one-way valves in the neck keep the blood from flowing back to the brain when our neck is lowered, and a spongy tissue in the brain, called a "wonder net," catches the blood as our heads go forward. These design features protect our brains and allow us to drink! God was certainly wise when He designed us.

Here are some cool facts about giraffes:

•Not only are we the tallest animals, we also have the longest tails of any mammal

—up to 4 feet (1.2m) long, including the tail tuft!

- Just like you all have different fingerprints, each giraffe has a different pattern of spots.
- We can use our blue tongues to reach an extra 20 inches (51 cm).
- We don't have very many natural predators, but sometimes lions will try to attack baby giraffes. That's not a good idea because an angry momma can kick the head off a lion with her powerful hind kick.
- We are usually pretty quiet animals, but we can make a wide variety of noises such as mooing, bleating, bellowing, snoring, whistling, grunting, and coughing.

Size:18 feet (5.5 m) tall; 5 ft (150 cm) long Weight:1,765 to 4,200 pounds

Nails in the Fence –

There once was a little boy who had a bad temper. His Father gave him a bag of nails and told him that every time he lost his temper, he must hammer a nail into the back of the fence. The first day the boy had driven 37 nails into the fence. Over the next few weeks, as he learned to control his anger, the number of nails hammered daily gradually dwindled down. He discovered it was easier to hold his temper than to drive those nails into the fence.

Finally the day came when the boy didn't lose his temper at all. He told his father about it and the father suggested that the boy now pull out one nail for each day that he was able to hold his temper.

The days passed...and the young boy was finally able to tell his father that all the nails had been removed. The father took his son by the hand and led him to the fence. He said, "You have done well, my son, but look at the holes in the fence. The fence will never be the same. When you say things in anger, they leave a scar just like this one. You can put a knife in a man and draw it out. It won't matter how many times you say 'I'm sorry', the wound is still there. A verbal wound is as bad as a physical one."
